Steel Strike Effects Point To Crisis Soon

Many Small Firms Already Have Begun Halting Production

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Effects of the nationwide steel strike—slowly building up over the last 59 days—appear headed for a crisis within the next two to four weeks.

Heavy inventories accumulated during a record six months' production prior to the strike are becoming unbalanced. Many small firms unnoticed because of size have quietly halted production.

An Associated Press survey shows layoffs in industries allied to steel have reached 175,000. Late reports may push the unemployment figures even higher.

Even as the picture grows dark many of the big manufacturers who depend on steel for raw material report they have not yet felt the sting of the strike. They add quickly that time is running out.

While the economic squeeze grows tighter, negotiators for the basic steel industry and nearly a half-million striking United Steel workers show no sign of coming close to an agreement.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said earlier this week he would recommend that the President halt the strike by Taft-Hartley injunction if steel shortages develop and further unemployment results.

Just how much the 80-day cooling off period provided for under Taft-Hartley would help is questionable. It would take weeks to fill delivery lines that were drawn dry prior to the strike.

Steel firms report heavy ordering for the fourth quarter already. An 80-day production resumption would start a wild scramble to build up sagging inventories and result in long waits for many customers.

A poll by the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents of big firms in the manufacturing field was summed up by saying:

"The steel strike hasn't hurt business yet, but if it isn't settled in 30 days manufacturing companies may have to cut back sharply."

The Associated Press state-by-state survey shows that most of the unemployment resulting from the steel strike so far has occurred in or near the big steel producing centers.

Ike Indicates Talks on Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower has indicated he may discuss ways to end the steel strike with governors whose states are hardest hit by the long walk-out.

The President sent a telegram Thursday to Pennsylvania Gov. David Lawrence suggesting he might meet with the executive committee of the governors conference.

Lawrence and the governors of eight other states had requested such a session last week. The President told Lawrence:

"It would appear to me that any meeting which I might have with governors would be more productive if it was with your duly constituted executive committee."

Lawrence said Pennsylvania's labor secretary, William L. Batt Jr., would meet Gov. J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware, conference chairman to discuss arrangements for the executive committee to meet with the President.

The President's impatience with the pace of bargaining in the dispute got some action Thursday from the industry and the union. Negotiators scheduled their first Saturday meeting since the strike began.

Army Reserve Company Has 10 Openings Here

Headquarters and Headquarters Co., 7th medium tank battalion, has 10 vacancies for young men between the ages of 17 and 25 who are interested in joining the Army Reserve.

The program consists of six months' active duty training and the remainder of the enlistment spent here with the local reserve unit. Training will be in specialties covering various phases of operation of the Salem battalion, explained M. Sgt. John T. Wern of the local armory. He may be contacted for further information at ED 7-9369.

Miss Illinois Wins In Talent

Miss America Finals Saturday

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Miss Illinois and Miss New York State have learned that singing and looking good in a bathing suit can be most profitable.

Miss Illinois, 21-year-old Suzanne Ingeborg Johnson of Chicago Thursday night sang "Hello Young Lovers" to win the preliminary talent competition in the 1960 Miss America contest here.

Miss New York State, Bonnie Jo Marquis, 19, an Ithaca College sophomore of Huntington, N. Y., took the swimsuit award.

Both get $1,000 scholarships. They now await Saturday night's finals, when a new Miss America will be selected. She'll receive $10,000 in scholarships and about $75,000 for personal appearances during her reign.

Miss Johnson said she was "perfectly thrilled" with her prize and added she selected the Rodgers-Hammerstein tune because "I felt it would fit my type of voice."

She is a mezzo soprano. She plans to use the $1,000 to study voice in New York.

Like other preliminary winners in other Miss America pageants, Miss Marquis said she was "stunned," that she didn't expect to win, and that she felt there were at least a half dozen better than she.

Two Youths Hurt As Auto Overtakes

Two Columbiana County youths were injured Thursday at 9:25 p.m. when their car failed to negotiate a curve on Rt. 14, three and a half miles east of Columbiana, and overturned in a field.

In fair condition at Salem City Hospital is Richard J. Robertson, 19, of RD 1, Columbiana, driver of the car. He suffered lacerations of the left eye and lip, a possible concussion and possible broken femur. Treated for contusions of the forehead and released was Terry Lee Rock, 16, of East Palestine, a passenger in the car.

Robertson was arrested for reckless operation. The car left the road 1.3 miles east of Route 7.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Two major matters and many lesser ones were disposed of Thursday.

Both houses overrode Eisenhower's objections and passed finally a $1,185,309,093 money bill to finance flood control, harbor and other public works projects. In doing so, Congress upset the first Eisenhower veto of the 146 he has issued since 1953.

The House completed congressional action on a third-try billion dollar housing bill which the White House has indicated Eisenhower will sign. He had vetoed two earlier measures.

The Senate passed a bill which would make it easier for this country to extend aid to Poland and other Iron Curtain countries seeking a measure of independence from Moscow. But Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), whose opposition helped defeat a similar bill by a single vote last year, called for reconsideration before sending it to the House.

The House may act today on a compromise version of a farm surplus disposal bill. Worked out Thursday night by a conference committee, the measure would extend for two years the present program of selling surplus crops overseas in return for foreign currencies.

The conferees agreed on a two-year extension, with authority to sell 1½ billion dollars worth of products a year and to give away up to 300 millions more a year for emergency relief. The bill also

Two Pennsylvania Railroad Workers Hurt In County

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Two Pennsylvania Railroad employees were injured by the sudden stopping of a freight train after two cars derailed.

Conductor William Boring, 43, and Flagman J. L. Goe, 44, both of Cleveland, were treated at City Hospital here Thursday, then transferred to a Cleveland hospital.

Boring suffered a possible leg fracture and Goe had an ankle injury.

The two cars left the track near Irondale while the train of 153 empty cars was en route from Minzo Junction to Cleveland. It took six hours to clear the track. Traffic meanwhile was rerouted via Conway, Pa.

High scorers in the test, not necessarily listed in order, were reported as Richard L. Zimmerman of 174 E. 365 St., David J. Fortney of 365 S. Ellsworth Ave. and Robert L. Gibson of 194 Fair Ave.

Harris declined to reveal the scores, declaring they might be subject to change upon re-grading of the test papers. The three men will be certified to Safety Director Joseph Fester who will appoint one of them as fireman.

The vacancy in the department will be created with the retirement on Capt. Charles Malloy, effective next Thursday.

Asian Commies Talking Peace On Two Fronts

Gestures May Be Linked to Trip of Khrushchev to U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Asian Communists are talking peace through "friendly negotiations" on two fronts—the India-China border and in Laos. But the Reds are giving no indication of a readiness to make concessions.

Red China's parliamentary standing committee was called suddenly into session today to discuss the growing dispute with India along the Tibetan border.

This came after the Laotian rebels announced Wednesday they were ready to negotiate "if the royal Laotian government still desires a peaceful settlement."

A U.N. fact-finding mission is leaving New York for Laos Saturday night in answer to an appeal for help from the royal government. The rebels accused the U.N. of interfering in the internal affairs of Laos.

There was speculation here the Communist peace gestures might be at the urging of Moscow to create a more relaxed international atmosphere for Premier Nikita Khrushchev's trip to the United States next Tuesday for talks with President Eisenhower.

The Soviet Union has shown concern over the growing bitterness between Red China and India with an open plea to both to settle their border differences.

Peiping radio said Chinese Communist newspapers today gave prominence to the statement from the Soviet news agency Tass "denouncing the exploitation of the Sino-Indian border issue by the West and to sow discord between the two greatest Asian countries, China and India."

Indian Prime Minister Nehru told a news conference in New Delhi today he doesn't think there

Ike Asks Khrushchev For Constructive Ideas

DEATH BUS — A tow truck prepares to lift a Garrett County school bus from the Baltimore & Ohio tracks Sept. 10 in Mountain Lake Park, Md., shortly after the bus was struck by the "Diplomat," a St. Louis to Baltimore passenger train. Seven children were killed and 15 injured. The impact carried the bus 30 feet from the crossing.

Death Toll 7 In Bus Tragedy

Authorities Seek Cause of Crash

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK, Md. (AP)—Stunned residents of this western Maryland hill country grieved today for an explanation of the train-school bus smashup in which seven of their children perished.

In the wake of the tragedy, federal and state authorities moved in for the grim job of finding that explanation.

What was it that caused the bus to stall on a grade crossing in the path of a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad passenger train?

One moment the vehicle was alive with the chirping of 23 youngsters bound for schools in nearby Oakland.

Seconds later it was a grotesquely twisted monster, a big gash in its side where the St. Louis-Baltimore Diplomat had met it with the hissing of brakes and the scream of spark-splitting wheels.

Elroy Campbell, 49-year-old driver of the bus, told first arrivals at the scene he had stopped at the crossing as required by law but saw nothing to indicate a train was coming. As he started across, the bus engine conked out, he said.

A railroad spokesman said signals at the crossing—a red flashing light and a bell—were operating.

Premier to Attend Whirl of Dinners

Khrushchev's First 9 Days Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—A coast-to-coast whirl of white tie, black tie and business suit dinners has been lined up for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's American tour.

Also on the docket is a lunch in the employees' cafeteria of an industrial plant.

Details for the first nine days of the visit were announced Thursday by the White House. They cover his tour through Washington, New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Des Moines.

Schedules for his visit to Pittsburgh and a second stay in Washington will be announced later.

Despite hopes of some U.S. leaders to impress Khrushchev with this country's military and industrial might, only one visit to a factory and none to military bases are included before he reaches Pittsburgh.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Mrs. Nixon will greet the Soviet leader and his party when his big jet airliner arrives at 11:30 a.m. next Tuesday at nearby Andrews Air Force Base.

Khrushchev will have a private luncheon at the President's guest house before going to the White House for a mid-afternoon conference with Eisenhower.

The Eisenhowers will entertain at a white tie dinner that night at the White House for the Khrushchevs.

Wednesday's schedule calls for a visit to the agricultural experiment station at Beltsville, Md.; an address to the Washington press corps at a National Press Club luncheon; and a motor tour through the capital.

The Khrushchevs will give a dinner that night at the Soviet embassy in honor of the Eisenhowers.

Other highlights of the tour include: Sept. 17—Train trip to New York.

President Sees Visit as Path Toward Summit

Radio-TV Report Included Recent European Trip

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower held open today the possibility that his man-to-man talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, beginning Tuesday, may lead to a summit conference.

That could mean negotiations on disarmament, the future of Germany and other world issues.

In a radio-TV report to the nation Thursday night Eisenhower called on Khrushchev to come to Washington with "constructive ideas and suggestions that could provide the basis for responsible negotiation on the issues that divide us." And he expressed carefully guarded optimism about the possibility of moving toward better understanding between the Soviet Union and the West.

"It is my profound hope," he declared, "that some real progress will be forthcoming, even though no one would be so bold as to predict such an outcome."

Throughout his speech Eisenhower emphasized that he does not intend to abandon any principle of basic American policy in his search for new approaches to solution of East-West problems.

Any agreement for a later summit meeting, he said, "must be based upon the certainty" of Soviet respect for the position of the Western powers in Berlin. In addition, he said, "there must be some clear Soviet indication, no matter how given, that serious negotiation will bring about real promise of reducing the causes of world tensions."

"Firmness in support of fundamentals," Eisenhower said, "with flexibility in tactics and methods, is the key to any hope of progress in negotiation."

The President's report covered both his recent European trip and his forthcoming talks with Khrushchev, who will arrive here next Tuesday on a 12-day visit to the United States. At the outset of the visit, Khrushchev will spend two days in Washington. He will wind up his coast-to-coast tour with three more days of discussions here.

Mahoning Local Enrollment of 3,660 Establishes Record

Enrollment in the Mahoning Local School system, which includes both Sebring and Goshen High Schools, is 3,660 this year, according to Clinton Heacock, executive head of the school system.

Heacock said that this is a new all-time high for grades one through 12 in that school system. Last year's enrollment was 3,660 at the beginning of the year, but that figure included some 300 kindergarten pupils. The kindergarten program was discontinued this year.

Heacock also reported that there are approximately 37 other students in the system that have not been accounted for.

Attendance by schools is: McKinley (Sebring) High School, 991; Goshen High School and elementary, 665; F. A. Sebring, 268; Lincoln, 297; Goshen Center, 114; Maple Ridge, 360; Knox, 692; Lebolt, 241; Special class, 32; total, 3,660.

How to Get the Best Education For Your Child

If Johnny Can't Read by Age 8, Parents Had Better Get Busy

By DR. BENJAMIN FINE
And LILLIAN FINE
(For Associated Press Newfeatures)

"Color, cut out and paste, color, cut out and paste," grumbles the kindergarten in a cartoon, "and where does it get you?"

Actually, some children, eager for more grown-up status, do long for formal instruction.

Yet, to the first grader, almost everything is an unknown quantity. No wonder some grow tense and fearful. This is a time when your child needs all the encouragement you can give.

Should you visit school often during class time? Probably not.

Should you try to help Johnny read? If you do, be sure you are not at cross purposes with the teacher. The wise parent cooperates, praises, encourages in the first and second grades.

"But my Billy is almost through first grade and can't read," objects Mrs. Jones.

"What does his teacher say?" "Oh that he's young for his age and isn't ready. Said I should read to him more and take him places. I've got enough to do. That's her job I don't think she's any good."

IT'S A FAIRLY SAFE BET that if Billy doesn't have a reading problem now, he soon will. Mrs. Jones' attitude is likely to dishearten both Billy and teacher.

Mrs. Jones' concern would be justified if Billy were almost 8. If your child cannot read simple stories by the time he finishes third grade, take the matter seriously but try not to frighten him. Emotion is a common cause of "reading block."

First look for a physical cause.

Does he have normal sight and hearing? Arrange for a really thorough examination. Tell the oculist the child is having trouble learning to read. For any weakness or abnormal condition, treatment should begin immediately.

If no physical cause appears, the next step is to insist on conferences with the teacher, the reading specialist and possibly the principal.

What seem to be the child's chief difficulties? How retarded is he? What tests have been given and what do they indicate on intelligence, maturity, reading readiness? Does the school offer special help for those with learning difficulties? If not where is help available? What can be done at home to help? What aid is the school going to give the child?

You may wish to have a qualified person tutor him. It is not as a rule a good idea for parents to do so.

Are all reading difficulties easily overcome? Unfortunately, no. But most children can be helped.

MAKING THE CHILD repeat a grade seldom does much good. Undoubtedly there should be more remedial-reading teachers, better textbooks, smaller classes. But have you looked at your tax bill lately?

The idea of reading "readiness" bothers many fathers and mothers. Research has shown, however, that at a certain point in their development most children can learn to read with minimum difficulty. Before that, the chance of failure will be greater. It is said that Woodrow Wilson could not read well until he was 10.

Forty years ago most third-graders were required to master long division. For thousands it was a "time of troubles." Third graders today have troubles, but long division is not likely to be one of them. It is not taught until fifth grade or later, when children are able to learn it easily.

Parents can help a child develop the ability to concentrate and follow through by gentle reminders and encouragement. One way is to read him a story and then ask him to tell it to you. Help him recall important details, and be sure to praise.

Another area where you can help is in making decisions. This is painfully hard for many youngsters. It takes time and effort, but it is a good idea to let children have some choice in the clothes they wear, the food they eat, and the games they play. This does not mean Billy may play with his father's rifle.

AT SOME TIME a child may become disheartened. Perhaps he does not like his teacher or—more likely—feels she does not like him. Perhaps he thinks the instruction inadequate, the work too hard, or other children picking on him.

There is a fairly good chance he is imagining things, but also a chance he is right. Parents can help by listening carefully to all complaints and then investigating. A phone call to the teacher will sometimes straighten things out. If a child seems tense and worried, it may be a good idea to let him stay home a day or two. This should not be allowed often for some children quickly get the idea of playing sick.

What should parents do if their child is in the hands of an unjust or incompetent teacher? Many are reluctant to complain. But little children should not be left to the mercies of an untrained or neurotic person. After making sure of their facts, parents should go to the principal and, if necessary, to the superintendent. Be firm and insistent, though always tactful. It usually is possible to transfer a child to another class or even to another school.

One of the best things a parent can do is to be friends with a child's teachers. It pays dividends.

"I've taught in this town for 30 years," a well known teacher remarked recently, "and in all of that time only three of my pupils' families have invited me to dinner."

Wool Ballots Being Received — Ballots of wool growers in the 1959 referendum on advertising and sales promotion of lamb and wool are now being voted at the county ASC offices and are also the mail, according to Chairman L. L. Moff of the Mahoning ASC committee.

The referendum is being conducted this month to encourage the largest possible vote by wool and lamb producers. There is a ballot box in the county office which may be used for secret balloting in person and is also used to deposit unopened any ballots received by mail.

In the referendum, growers vote either for or against continuing the present promotional program for lamb and wool which is financed by deductions from incentive payments earned by growers under the national wool program. This deduction has been in effect since the wool program began in 1955 and would continue for another three years if favored in the referendum. Deductions would not exceed the present level of 1 cent per pound for shorn wool and 5 cents per hundred-weight for unshorn lambs.

An eligible voter is any individual or legal entity which owned one or more sheep six months of age or older for a period of at least 30 days since Jan. 1, 1959.

3 More Charged In Little Rock Bombing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Little Rock police and FBI agents have charged three more men in Little Rock's Labor Day bombings. Municipal Court hearing for the men was set for today.

Five men have now been charged in connection with the late evening blasts which shattered part of the Little Rock school board office, the business office of Mayor Werner Knoop and a station wagon owned by Fire Chief Gann Nalley.

No one was hurt in the bombings. John Taylor Coggin, 39, car salesman, Samuel Graydon Beavers, 49, a carpenter at the state hospital here, and Jesse Raymond Perry, 24, truck driver, were charged with destroying property and Beavers were arrested Thursday, Perry on Wednesday.

Police Chief Eugene Smith and FBI Special Agent J. J. Casper announced the charges jointly and would not elaborate. Coggin, Beavers and Perry were held in jail in lieu of $50,000 bond, charged with destroying property with explosives. This felony charge carries a penalty of up to five years in prison and/or $500 fine.

It's the Same Old Fight

There are times in the hurly-burly of politics and government when every spectator needs a program to tell him who the players are and what positions they are playing.

The hurly-burly over the Khrushchev visit is one of the times.

President Eisenhower has taken the position as chief executive and the maker of foreign policy that he has the right and the duty to arraign a home-and-home series of visits with the premier of the Soviet Union.

Under the Constitution, he does have the right. And as a public official who has dedicated his energy to peace, he does have the duty to do whatever he can do to ease tension between his government and the Soviet Union.

But Mr. Eisenhower also must play two other roles. He is a politician, and he is a symbol in this republic's oldest and bitterest fight—the contest between the President and Congress, especially the Senate, for the upper hand in foreign relations.

Thus, attacks on Khrushchev, no matter how they may be made to appear, are essentially attacks on the President of the United States. This is true even though some of the Khrushchev attackers would deny that they had any intention of interfering with the proper function of the presidency. This is a particularly ticklish situation when they are motivated by religion, because it raises the question whether they may be putting religion ahead of Constitutional right.

As far as Congress is concerned—and especially the Senate—any question about the President's right to go through with the Khrushchev visits becomes part of the ageless bicker over divided powers. Here it is again—the issue of whether the President has the sole right to formulate foreign policy and put it into action, or whether he should be bound and tied by the Senate's right to have a part in treaty-making.

It is a fair guess that Mr. Eisenhower did not think of the possibility he might be nibbled to distraction by critical ducks when he announced the Khrushchev visit. But it was a fair guess when he made the announcement that his executive prerogative would be challenged from every quarter—from Congress, from religious groups, from patriotic groups and from political partisans. All have been heard from.

They need to be identified as to motives and position to understand what they are up to, which is essentially the American pastime of trying to tear down the prestige of the presidency, particularly in foreign relations.

Legislation by the Morse Code

Wayne Lyman Morse, the one-time Republican senator from Oregon who turned Democrat because the Republicans did not appreciate him, will have been on the job 15 years starting in 1960.

He has learned all the tricks of the senatorial trade, as he practices it, which is legislation by Morse Code. This is not a brutal technique as it is used to be when Washington was not air-conditioned. But it is hard on the people's faith, where air-conditioning is no help.

A candidate for an advanced degree in political science might properly do a thesis on this remarkable man. The factual material would be drawn, of course, from the Congressional Record, supplemented by the speeches he has made on numerous occasions outside the Senate chamber.

Color background for this definitive work on the Morse Code of Lawmaking would be drawn from the senator's own explanations of his beliefs as they have appeared in written material and as they might be supplemented by up-to-date interviews.

The point to be proved would be this:

That if this highly educated man is right and the principal function of a senator of the United States is to make a long speech on every occasion, including speeches with no bearing on the topic under discussion, there must be a new theory for representative democracy.

It is not government by deliberation and compromise at all. It is government by eloquence, on the theory that some wisdom must reside in language if enough language is put through the process; that it is like panning gold in a creek bed.

Sen. Morse's latest contribution to the art he has perfected is to stall and confuse an already badly confused U.S. Senate which has been unable to finish what should have been done last June, though it is wearing on to mid-September. To the senators and to their brothers in the House of Representatives it is just that much more air-conditioning. To the country at large it is a challenge to keep on believing in representative democracy, despite the Morse Code of Legislation Through Obfuscation.

Origin of a Red Trauma

Since Premier Khrushchev mentioned it in the article in Foreign Affairs that diplomats are combing for clues to his thinking, President Eisenhower, Vice President Nixon, Secretary of State Herter and others may want to clear up his trauma about the U.S. invasion of Russia after World War I.

The mental scar of this incident is painful for Russians, though few Americans know why it should be so. In the case of Khrushchev's mind, the scar is too deep to be repaired, but it might be explained in a way he could comprehend, because he once did the same thing himself.

In his famous explanation of what happened under Joseph Stalin that he did not approve of, he leaned heavily on the thesis that some things are made necessary by expediency; that they are done under orders. The U.S. invasion of Russia was expedient; it was done under orders; it did not represent permanent policy.

In 1918 this country was represented in a military expedition sent to Archangel by the Supreme Interallied War Council to keep Germany from turning it into a submarine base. President Wilson opposed the move but finally yielded in order to have a part in controlling it. There were 109 men killed in action; it was real.

A less real "invasion" happened in 1919. It had no casualties. The United States sent an expedition to aid Czechoslovaks in Siberia who were rumored to be trying to join the forces opposing Germany. The rumor subsequently was held to be false. But the fact is that American troops were on Russian soil without consent. These two incidents have been the cause of a Russian trauma about invasion by forces hostile to Communism. Russians do not accept the claim that both U.S. expeditions were innocent of hostility to Communism.

Nevertheless, both in the official record and in the general understanding of the American people there was no hostility to Russia in 1918, 1919, or since. There has been no thought of fighting Communists as such.

If Premier Khrushchev's hosts could persuade him to send a research team of Russian historians to scan the record, they might be able to reassure him that his fixation about capitalist invasions is baseless, as Americans all know it is.

fun and there mustn't be any disputes.

K: THERE YOU GO SPOILING EVERYTHING FOR ME.

(Khrushchev drives a ball into a foursome only a few yards ahead without warning and knocks one man out.)

Ike: You shouldn't drive a ball into players ahead.

K: Nonsense I simply repelled an aggressive act by them.

Ike: But they weren't even headed our way.

K: The fact they didn't get out of the way proves they were a hostile force. (Driving another ball into the foursome.)—Forward in the cause of peace

THE NEW YORK Theater League which announced the 7:30 curtain this month now rings down the curtain on the idea until next year. Says 200,000 letters from theatergoers showed they had bought tickets far ahead and planned dinners, etc., which would make the 7:30 curtain a great inconvenience. The million playgoers who like to get to a show early without cocktail parties, big dinners and taxi troubles, didn't write and will just have to surrender unconditionally to the heavy-loading theatergoers whose enjoyment depends on arriving after curtain's rise, disturbing everybody else and displaying the Mr. and Mrs. Big Motif.

Major league ballplayers are to choose a lawyer from a list of ten. Some want a mouthpiece who has a fast ball, others prefer a counsel with a curve and knuckler. We think players need a team of attorneys, with a bull pen from which they can call in a relief mouthpiece when one is getting knocked out of the box. We can recommend two firms ideal for ballplayers: Homer, Sockman, HHurley & Wine or Kloutz, Longball, Fowler, Baggs and Tagows.

Civil Rights Action Unlikely

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major civil rights legislation this year is as unlikely as the idea that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will ask for political asylum when he lands here next week.

Congress, rushing to get away before Khrushchev arrives, may renew the life of the President's six-man Civil Rights Commission which otherwise dies Nov. 9. That's the most in view.

Civil rights advocates might like to think that if not this year then next year Congress will ram through a strong civil rights bill. Don't bet on it, even though 1960 could be noisy.

Next year is the big election year—for the presidency and Congress—and Southern Democrats, no matter what the year, can be relied on to fight any civil rights bill with real teeth in it.

Such a fight, if it got nasty enough, could split the Democratic party wide open at a time when it wanted unity at the polls.

The Democratic leaders in Congress—Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn, both of Texas—are compromisers who don't like splits. Johnson himself is a possible candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Tuesday the Civil Rights Commission, although without much real power of its own, threw another log on the fire with a report making some proposals in the civil rights field.

Southern Democrats hopped on them angrily and at once, even though they are still only in the talking stage. Nevertheless, the commission's suggestions are bound to be one more point of argument next year.

But judging from past performance—the maneuvering and compromising in Congress—plus the fact that 1960 is election time, it seems safe to say any civil rights legislation passed next year will be fairly mild.

This seemed the year for any effort at a strong civil rights bill—since Southerners would have had another year to cool off—but neither Johnson nor Rayburn sought to make civil rights a major issue this year.

Varying civil rights proposals were put forth by Johnson, by President Eisenhower, and by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), who was joined by 14 other Democratic and Republican senators.

All of the proposals landed in an icebox because of Southern Democrats' tactics in locking them up in committee and thus keeping them from getting out on the floor of the House or Senate for a vote. The committees which did the locking up are headed by Southerners.

Earlier this year the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights—made up of 53 organizations—threw its weight behind the bill sponsored by Douglas and the other 14 senators. A companion bill was offered in the House by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People and chairman of the conference, called the Douglas measure "certainly the No. 1 civil rights bill." From the start, this looked like the one with the least chance.

A statement by the conference's executive committee found some good in Eisenhower's proposals but said the Johnson bill might result in "civil rights being bargained away rather than enforced."

If any measure gets through next year, it isn't likely to be the Douglas bill but more probably some middle-road legislation which the Southerners won't find too unpalatable.

Steel Tug of War

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Eisenhower Won't Favor Union or Industry

Maybe next week there will be a settlement of the steel strike. Things point that way.

What has happened is that the labor union leaders have discovered that this time they cannot depend on the government to intervene. It has been a union objective all along to get the administration involved in some way because, as has happened heretofore, politics usually produces a beneficial result for the unions.

But President Eisenhower is standing firm. He is determined that, while the government will do all it can to assist any mediation process, nothing will be done to favor either side or to compel a settlement.

So the situation resolves itself into a tug of war between the negotiators.

Already, despite the pessimistic observations that have come lately from federal mediators, there are evidences that direct negotiation is producing some tangible results. At least, the issues are being dealt with by several special committees and a systematic procedure is being followed that is constructive.

WHAT THE NATION is witnessing is a demonstration of how difficult it really is to settle a strike that has hardened each side and made it perilous for unions or management to seem to be retreating.

How then does organized economic power get out of the dilemma into which a strike plunges management and unions?

It has been aptly said again and again about strikes that it is far easier to settle a major dispute before a strike ensues than afterward. This is because each side takes a fixed position publicly when a strike is called and then neither side can afford to back down.

Also, even when there is a disposition to settle a big strike, the question of how to do it is baffling.

Take two issues — one relating to so-called "feather bedding" and the other to the problem of wage increases.

How can contract clauses be written to cover all the various ways by which lots of different steel companies would describe the allocation of work to particular classes of workmen?

Unions naturally resist the introduction of machinery because, while the higher paid employees benefit, fewer jobs are available for the moment to many other workers.

IN THE LONG RUN, mechanization leads to increased volume of business and more employment but it is today's jobs — and not next year's — that cause the negotiators for the unions to worry when they realize what is really inevitable.

Also, how could David McDonald, president of the Steelworkers Union, face his membership if he doesn't obtain, in addition to "fringe" benefits, some kind of wage increase?

A strike that ends without any wage increase is usually regarded as a defeat and the union officers responsible are voted out of office in a subsequent election.

Maybe the steel companies, recognizing what Mr. McDonald is up against, will agree to some increase in wages. The employers like him as a labor leader.

As they look ahead, the question is who will control the rank and file in the future. Will it be a radical labor leader if the present strike ends on a basis that is disappointing to the union members or will Mr. McDonald be retained because the workers are convinced he has achieved all that, as a practical matter, it was possible to gain?

The steel companies know that a price increase for steel products would be unpopular and they have every intention of trying to forego such an increase as a contribution to the anti-inflationary fight being made today by those, inside and outside government, who understand the dangers of the wage-price spiral.

A WAGE INCREASE of some kind — perhaps a relatively small one, but nevertheless additional compensation that the workers will feel to some extent made the strike worth while — may be forthcoming. But it would have to be relatively small, since it would have to be coupled with an announcement that no price increases are to be made by the steel companies.

The way, broadly speaking, to settle the issues is well known to both sides but the big problem is how to handle the settlement, not only in the wording of a large variety of contracts but in explaining the peace treaty to stockholders and union members.

About all that will be proved in the end that strikes don't pay off for either side and that some way to reach agreement before a strike occurs must be devised if organized economic power isn't going to inflict greater and greater hardships hereafter on the industries and their workers, as well as on the nation as a whole.

The Beneficiaries

By TRUMAN TWILL

I do not want to go back to school — not at my age — but each fall when a new school year starts I turn green inside with envy when I look at the pupils.

What a pity, as someone first said long ago, that youth should be wasted on the young.

And "wasted" is the word.

When I had my chance to go to school, I did not know how to make the most of it. I wasted time in futile, foolish feuds with teachers. I had a couple of feuds that ran on for years. I worked at keeping them alive as if I were being paid for my efforts, when in truth I was ribbing myself.

I wasted time worrying about things that weren't true, such as my certainty that if I had to tackle anything in the name of mathematics I would make a fool of myself. By hindsight, I feel pretty sure it wasn't so. Mathematics may not have been my best pitch, but I recall that one semester I racked up a grade so good in algebra I that the teacher said he wouldn't give it to me, because no one ever made 100 in his classes.

The gimmick was that the teacher was the football coach, and I wanted to play on his football team. I had incentive. So for once I wasted no time resisting what he was trying to teach me. The next semester was another story. I flunked algebra. The next year I flunked geometry under another teacher, not because it was tough but because I disliked the teacher and he, in all probability, disliked me for disliking him.

If I could get back my fettered-away youth, I would know what to do with it the next time around. There wouldn't be a second of it wasted on anything.

I wouldn't worry about what I wore, which is something that used to tie me in knots. Even a pair of those ghastly green stockings they used to make me wear with my sag-seated knickerbockers wouldn't upset me. Or a panty-waist. Yup, I wore one. Everybody did.

Another thing I wasted time on was dreading things that never happened. I spent two years dreading the sixth grade because a kid named Willie once hissed in my ear that everything was peach-pie lovely until you "hit the sixth," which must have been Willie's Waterloo. As it turned out, the sixth was a breeze despite the only unpleasantness I ever witnessed in a school room.

The teacher was an embittered old gal who worked up a psychopathic spite against a doll-faced girl who had moved to town the preceding summer to live with an aunt. One morning the spite sputtered and exploded in a frenzied physical attack on the child. That afternoon, the aunt arrived to retaliate in kind against the teacher. Before the principal could get on the scene, the two angry women harangued a roomful of children, pleading their cases as though we were a jury.

I think there must have been more of that sort of crudity then there is now. Schools weren't as well organized. More was left to chance. I am ashamed to tell my own children some of the things we did to teachers who had made our blacklists. It was almost as bad as pioneer days when a teacher either had to handle all the rough stuff in stride or pass on to the next school and hope for better luck.

That is what I regret when school begins and I see the beneficiaries of youth on their way to school. I hope they know what they are doing, because I am afraid they don't. Chances are they're wasting their bounce and pounce as the supply were endless. It isn't.

Mrs. Ernest Banar

Miss Sandra Sue Liebhart Married to Ernest Banar

The wedding of Miss Sandra Sue Liebhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mathew W. Liebhart of 496 Perry St., and Ernest Banar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Banar Sr. of 473 Perry St., was an event of Saturday evening in the Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Twelve seven-branch candelabra lighted the chancel for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Richard D. Freseman. Two vase arrangements of white gladioli, pompons and Fuji mums, ciborium ferns, palms and grape ivy completed the altar decorations.

Mrs. Mervin Farmer of Lisbon sang "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." She was accompanied by Miss Bonnie Minth of Salem.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was designed with a high neckline and long sleeves. Side inserts of pleated nylon ruffles highlighted the bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a matching lace headband. She carried a white Bible topped with white pompons, French carnations and Stephanotis.

Appearing in a ballerina-length gown of pink silk organza was the maid of honor, Miss Helen L. Liebhart of Salem, sister of the bride. She carried a cascade arrangement of yellow pompons and coral carnations.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Richard Leaf of Salem and Miss Pat Perry of Lisbon, wore mint green chiffon gowns. Yellow and bronze pompons formed their cascade bouquets.

Debbie Weiss of Salem was the flower girl. She appeared in a yellow nylon dress, and carried a basket of yellow and bronze pompons, with a matching floral headband.

George Banar of Salem, nephew of the groom was the ring bearer.

William C. Burrier of Salem was best man. The ushers were Thomas Swetty and John Anzman of Salem.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Liebhart wore an emerald green sheath with brown accessories. Mrs. Banar chose a blue lace dress with beige accessories. Both wore corsages of Fuji mums and pompons.

Two hundred and fifty guests from Columbus, Pittsburgh, Lisbon, Columbiana, East Palestine, Rogers, Salem, Canton and Cleveland attended the reception at the CIO Hall.

A four-tiered wedding cake, decorated in pink, centered the bride's table. Mrs. Herman Allison, Mrs. Emily Hazen and Mrs. Walter Liebhart were hostesses.

The couple are graduates of Salem High School. Mrs. Banar is employed as a secretary by the E. W. Bliss Co. Her husband is employed by the Chrysler Corp. at Twinsburg.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride wore a brown and black plaid sheath with black accessories. They will reside at the home of the bride's parents.

Posts Staffed With Men Who Owe Him Much

Khrushchev Has An Insurance Policy

Editor's Note—After shouldering his way to the top of the Communist hierarchy, Nikita Khrushchev has taken out an insurance policy by staffing key party posts with men who owe him much. In this fourth of a series William L. Ryan tells how Khrushchev has sought to solidify his position.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Not long after Stalin died, somebody in Nikita Khrushchev's frightened opposition — it's not clear just who it was — described him as "a man with an itch for organization — and reorganization."

Since 1955, when he emerged as the most powerful single figure in the Soviet dictatorship, Khrushchev has done some fantastic organizing and reorganizing.

A man of considerable political agility and boundless energy, he demonstrated his talent for organizing a political machine in a way which would have made him a master politician in any country.

As soon as he shoved shrewd Georgi Malenkov aside as Soviet Communist party boss in 1953, Khrushchev began populating key party posts with men who owed their careers to him. Four years later he was able to defy the majority of the party Presidium, until then the most powerful single group in Soviet politics.

That was an historic moment. The Communist Central Committee, by then full of Khrushchev's own men, set a notable precedent by reversing the Presidium, successor to Stalin's Politburo. Khrushchev was able to throw his opposition out of the places of power. Old Bolsheviks V.M. Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich, along with Stalin's heir, Malenkov, and others were licked by a wily politician.

From then on, Khrushchev was the Communist party. Any who opposed him were "antiparty."

Khrushchev reorganized Soviet agriculture, tossing aside the system of machine-tractor stations which under Stalin held power to allot machinery to collective farms and used it as a political bludgeon. He sent thousands of Soviet youths into "virgin lands" in Siberia and the east, to open up a new territory to farming. He demanded corn, corn and more corn to supply food for animals, one of the gravest weaknesses of Stalin era farming.

Khrushchev reorganized education. Young men and women who want to go on to higher education must take part in practical labor in Khrushchev's "work while you learn" program.

He reorganized Soviet science. No longer did it have to know to obey to Communist political party. The result was more for agriculture, more for the military machine, the first space satellite.

He recognized Communist theory itself. His main contribution to present-day theory: all Socialist countries (meaning countries with Soviet-like systems) would achieve the ultimate goal of communism more or less at the same time. Independent socialism therefore would be impossible.

Khrushchev reorganized propaganda. In the Middle East, he reversed all Stalin had done and embraced the Arab nationalist movement.

He introduced a propaganda of smiles, liberally laced with counter-balancing threats.

And he reorganized foreign policy. He forced high-level international meetings. He leaped into competition with the United States to extend economic aid to uncommitted countries. Shouting, gesticulating, pleading, he held up the U.S.S.R. as the only real champion of peace.

Through all this, Khrushchev retreated not an inch from a conviction that Soviet communism one day will conquer the world.

"If anyone believes our smiles involve the abandonment of the teachings of Marx, Engels and Lenin, he deceives himself badly," roared Khrushchev. "Those who wait for that will wait until the schrimp learns to whistle."

But no quarter was given capitalism in the Red drive toward world domination.

"Whether they like it or not," snorted Khrushchev, "the capitalists must die. It is like a pregnant woman who is about to give birth. It is a natural phenomenon. She has to give birth. You can't tell her to put it off. It is the same with the death of capitalism. Of course, we will contribute what we can."

Street of Dreams

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Every street you live or work on becomes in time a street of dreams.

An old way of life dies out, a new one is born. In most places the change may take a generation. Here in Manhattan progress gobbles up the past at a swifter pace.

This is the obituary of one side of one city block in Manhattan—the north side of W. 51st street between 5th and 6th avenues.

It now is a big business block, studded with banks and office buildings. A huge power shovel's hungry maw is eating through the ruins of older buildings to make way for the foundations of the new 48-story Zeckendorf Hotel.

It symbolizes the great changes now under way in mid-Manhattan.

Twenty years ago this block was a charming oasis in the city's uproar with a colorful atmosphere all its own.

The vast mausoleum-like home of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, last of the big league society dowagers, anchored the block elegantly to 5th avenue. From there it ran raffishly downhill socially to the scream of the strident 6th avenue elevated trains.

The block was inhabited by a colorful crew of newsmen, actors, admen, songwriters, grifters, drifters and hipsters. On an average evening you could run into everyone from a jockey to a harpoon salesman or a lady wrestler down on her luck.

There were expensive restaurants and cheap restaurants and a few sidewalk cafes where you could sit and watch the soot from brownstone chimneys drift mellowly down on and pepper your salad.

These eateries in this melting pot of the appetite saw the handwriting on the wall and moved away.

It was also a block of small craftsmen. There were the old book dealer, the shoe repair man, the violin maker, the seamstress who specialized in costumes for strip tease artists, and a hair dresser who did the best blonde bleaches in town.

They are gone now. So are the characters who made the block memorable. There was Jonathan Winters, gayest of the "sick" comedians.

And there was little Scotty who carried a rope in his hand but you 50 cents you couldn't tie him up so he couldn't get away. He was known as "the poor man's Houdini."

There was a famous death in this block. Collier's magazine died here—and had a magnificent wake.

Commerce has taken over the block. But as the big shovel digs the reluctant earth, one who remembers thinks less on the glory this block will know than on the lonesome glory of the good times it has already known, when the world was younger, now gone by forever.

Freighter Rescues Youngstown Pair On Lake Erie

DETROIT (AP) — "It was a Godsend that ship saw us or we wouldn't be here."

These words were uttered with a sigh of relief Thursday night by Paul Laughlin, a 60-year-old Youngstown, Ohio, steelworker, after he and his wife Edith, 48, were rescued from the small boat in which they had drifted for three days on Lake Erie.

After almost giving up hope, the couple was picked up 27 miles offshore from Conneaut, Ohio, by a Canadian freighter, the D. C. Everest. They were taken ashore here by a Coast Guard launch.

Laughlin said he has sworn off boating after the harrowing experience. "From now on I'll sit on dry land to do my fishing," he told newsmen.

The Laughlins said they left Conneaut about noon Monday. They intended to fish and cruise, returning before nightfall. But their 16-foot outboard developed engine trouble.

Laughlin said he rowed until he became tired, but the boat continued to drift out into the lake.

The heat spoiled the meat in a picnic lunch. "We ate dry bread and buns and drank lake water," the fisherman said.

Laughlin said he waved at several freighters, but they passed by, apparently not realizing the couple was in distress.

would permit, but not compel, the Agriculture Department to set up a food stamp plan to supply commodities to needy persons in this country.

Another conference group, though apparently deadlocked, tries again today to reach agreement on a bill to permit raising the interest rates on series E and H savings bonds.

The development watched with most interest Thursday was Congress' quick action in passing the public works bill over Eisenhower's veto.

It took the House just 30 minutes and the Senate less than 40 minutes to shatter the President's record of making all of his vetoes stick.

The House vote was 280-121, a margin of 12 votes more than the two-thirds required. Twenty Republicans joined 260 Democrats to upset the President, while 5 Democrats teamed up with 116 Republicans to support him. Just a week ago the House fell one vote short of overriding an almost identical measure.

The Senate bowed over the President by a vote of 72-23, an edge of 8 votes over the needed two-thirds. Twelve Republicans and 60 Democrats were on the winning side, with 21 Republicans and 2 Democrats on the short end.

Eisenhower vetoed the bill, as he did the earlier one, because it included financing for 67 projects not provided for in his budget.

Thursday's action left one major hurdle between Congress and adjournment. The Senate Saturday takes up a House-passed foreign aid appropriation bill providing about $3,290,000,000 in new aid funds and about 400 million more for miscellaneous other purposes.

Scheduled to be added to it on the Senate floor is an amendment to extend for two years the life of the Civil Rights Commission.

ANIMAL SCHOOL

FOR THOSE city kids whose knowledge of animals is limited to such pets as cats, dogs and parakeets, a trip to the International Animal Nursery, in New York, is quite an eye-opener. There the youngsters can play with animal babies ranging from lizards to monkeys. There are no cages to separate the animals from the children. The miracle of birth unfolds before their enchanted eyes as baby chicks hatch from their eggs. The awed youngsters can even listen to the chirping of an unborn chick moments before it comes out of the shell. The animal nursery for kids is a happy mixture of Mother Nature - Mother Goose.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Victor Riesel

James (not so much a riddle) Hoffa and his colleagues still believe that the best defense is to be offensive. The Teamsters public relations men have not invoked the name of His Holiness, Pope John XXIII, in their propaganda.

This was done recently in a futile attempt to silence a crusading Catholic writer, Father Ralph Gorman, editor of "The Sign." This is published by the Passionist Fathers. They are dedicated to decency and charity. They have fought the Teamsters.

One of their articles irritated James R. Hoffa. One of Hoffa's lieutenants reacted, naturally. This fellow is Frank E. Fitzsimmons, vice president of Hoffa's home Local 299, Detroit.

The Brother Fitzsimmons decided that any such attack on the Teamsters general president should be probed. This he demanded of Pope John.

HE WROTE His Holiness a letter asking for an investigation "for the benefit of all Catholic people in America who have access to this magazine . . . because I do not think that it is the policy of the Catholic Church to allow Catholicism to be taken upon themselves to violate the doctrine of the Catholic Church and its teachings."

At this point I want to take it upon myself to express resentment over Fitzsimmons' failure to include my good and tolerant friend, Father Benjamin Masse, fighting labor expert and crusader of "America," the Jesuits' magazine, without consulting Father Masse. I'm certain he's chagrined at being included out.

To Father Gorman, Hoffa's union brother wrote:

"Please be assured I find no fault with the Catholic Church . . ."

What Jim Hoffa's vice president questioned, he said, was Father Gorman's right to "take it upon himself" to attack the Teamsters and James R. Hoffa.

"I want it clearly understood that I think your comments and your articles in the past . . ."

pertaining to (the Teamsters) are to complete distortion of the truth. "Further, I think you, as a leader in Catholicism, should do as we have been taught since we were old enough to understand the Catholic Church and its teachings, that we do not condemn our brothers without a just trial . . ."

Then came an attack on Sen. McClellan and Robert Kennedy. And, of course, the demand that Father Gorman be probed.

IN HIS LETTER, Fitzsimmons suggested that Father Gorman check some sources. There is one source. Brother Frank Fitzsimmons himself. Fitzsimmons testified after Jim Hoffa had explained how he could spend large amounts of cash.

Hoffa swore he had borrowed tens of thousands of dollars from union officials to cover special expenses. This is what Fitzsimmons said after admitting that he had lent Hoffa $2,000, and Kennedy retorted by querying whether Fitz had gone to the bank to get the two grand:

"No . . . I went home. That evening I went home and the result of it was the next day I had the money and I brought it down to the office and I gave it to him." Kennedy then asked: "You happen to have kept this cash at home?"

A: "I keep cash at home."
Q: "In a little box?"
A: "No sir."
Q: "Just around the house?"
A: "Yes."

Fitz is a good hearted chap. He lent Jimmy the money in 1953. As an officially low income vice president and business agent, he could spare the two thousand for four years. Jimmy didn't return the loan until September 1957.

Now if Father Gorman were to write the authorities and ask for a probe of that, wouldn't Brother Fitz be indignant?

And Hoffa, too.

Guarding Your Health

Addiction to Sleeping Pills Is Serious

Most sleeping pills commonly used consist of various combinations of a chemical substance known as barbituric acid, though they are sold under an enormous number of trade names. Although they have valuable uses in medicine, they are so frequently misused that they should be avoided unless really needed and prescribed.

IT HAS BEEN estimated that in the United States alone more than 15,000 patients are seen each year by physicians or in hospitals because of barbituric poisoning. The number of deaths from this cause reached 1,140 in 1949 and remained close to 1,000 in 1953.

This illustrates the seriousness of the situation from acute poisoning, but does not include chronic poisoning. On the encouraging side is the fact that newer methods of treatment have resulted in a great decrease in the percentage of deaths from acute poisoning in those who are reached and treated in time.

Some people are particularly sensitive to the barbiturate drugs. Such persons can get reactions from only small quantities. It is also a matter of concern that some people become addicted to barbiturates. That is, they develop a habit of using them which is difficult to throw off.

MOST PEOPLE who do develop the barbiturate habit do so because they have been using the pills for sleeplessness. The habit usually takes several months or even years to become established. A few people have difficulty in stopping after using the sleeping tablets for less than a month.

Those who are in the habit of taking a sleeping drug find that they have to take larger and larger quantities and that even then the results are less and less successful. Besides developing a harmful habit, they may be chronically poisoned.

ONE WOMAN, for example, who had taken barbiturates for several months became mentally incompetent, lost control of her elimination, lost weight and had to be fed with a spoon. One of my correspondents tells of a 58-year-old woman who three years ago was given phenobarbital, one-half grain to be taken as directed for high blood pressure. The writer said she is a highly nervous person and now she takes two of these tablets four times a day.

She has become depressed, cries easily and complains of pain in her back and elsewhere. "I told her to stop these pills," writes F. "go to the doctor and have a complete physical. She has her family in a nervous state at all times."

This is an excellent example of the kind of danger involved. Phenobarbital is one of the milder barbiturates, but even this can lead to habit formation and certainly should not be continued indefinitely without a checkup. The correspondent who was concerned about her friend is certainly correct in advising the lady to cease the drug and obtain medical advice.

Wilhelm Hurls Three-Hitter As Orioles Dump Indians 6-1

McLish, Score Both Blasted

Locke Hurls Two Scoreless Innings

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Manager Joe Gordon is so eager for pitchers to keep alive the pennant hopes of the Cleveland Indians, he's going to give infielder Granny Hamner a whirl.

Ironically, the 32-year-old Hamner, a shortstop and second baseman for 15 years with Philadelphia, was traded for a pitcher, Humberto Robinson, last May 29. "If Hamner has any future left in baseball, it's as a pitcher," Gordon said Thursday night. "I'm going to give him a shot at it before this season ends."

Pitching occupied Gordon's mind almost exclusively after the Indians dropped a 6-1 decision to the Baltimore Orioles and thus stayed 4½ games behind the American League-leading Chicago White Sox, who bowed to Washington, 8-2.

Like virtually all baseball minds, Gordon feels that "good pitching" is the key to any team's success. "If you have it, you have a chance to win any game," he reasoned.

The Indians must have it in the stretch drive of their 15 remaining games, but Gordon saw a glaring lack of it Thursday night.

Herb Score, a 20-game winner and strike-out king only three seasons ago, came on in the eighth. He walked two batters, then was rocked by Brooks Robinson's homerun. Isn't Hamner old to start pitching, Gordon was asked.

"I don't know. How old is Wilhelm?" countered Gordon. It was 36-year-old Hoyt Wilhelm who stopped the Indians on three hits after they had won six in a row. Hamner, Gordon reminded, had tried pitching for Philadelphia. In 1956 he gave up 10 hits and four runs in eight innings.

Cal McLish, the Indians' starter Thursday night, was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth inning with Baltimore leading 3-0. The loss was his eighth against 17 wins. He was followed by Bobby Locke, who pitched two scoreless innings, and Score.

The Orioles scored their three runs off McLish in the fourth inning. With two men out, Bob Boyd singled through the box and stole second. Robinson doubled to the left field corner, scoring Boyd. Joe Ginsberg walked and Billy Gardner tripled to left center, sending two runners home.

Cleveland's run came in the eighth, when George Strickland led off with a walk, went to second and third on passed balls and scored on a play at first base.

The only hits off Wilhelm (14-11) were two singles by Russ Nixon and a double by Woodie Held.

The Indians open a two-game series in Washington tonight, with Gary Bell (15-11) scheduled to go for the Tribe against Pedro Ramos (12-17).

Boosters See Films Of Quaker Scrimmages

Football Coach Earle Bruce explained Salem's offensive and defensive patterns and showed films of practice scrimmages when the Booster Club met Thursday night at the Memorial Building. Club President A. P. Schmauch reported that the Boosters have launched their membership drive with a goal of 1,000 members. He also announced that arrangements have been made to place pads on the light poles at Reilly Stadium for protection of the players. The work is to be completed before Salem's opening game here Sept. 18 with Cleveland Lincoln.

Bobcats Have Speed, Experience

Greenford Figures To Settle A Few Scores This Season

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

When Greenford High School jumped into varsity football competition four years ago they took more than their share of knocks.

Instead of scheduling games with reserve units the first couple of years as is customary for a new team, Coach Harry Frankland decided to start his charges right out against opponents in the tough Inter-County League.

This year, with an experienced squad which includes four seniors who won letters on Greenford's first varsity team, the Bobcats figured to settle a few scores.

The four veteran seniors who have won letters each year since they were freshmen are Dick Ludwig, 175-pound end; Bob Mincher, 175-pound center; Paul Laskey, 150-pound halfback; and Merlyn Bush, 170-pound quarterback.

FRANKLAND WILL have letter-winners starting at all but two positions where transfers from other schools have won first string assignments.

Ken Wellendorf, a 165-pound transfer from Canfield, has taken over the fullback post vacated by Ronnie Janovec who moved to Salem this summer. Wellendorf saw considerable varsity action but did not receive a letter while playing for Coach Bob Winterburn's defending Inter-County League Canfield eleven.

Wellendorf will have a tough time filling the shoes of Janovec who was good enough to crack the starting backfield of the vaunted Salem Quaker outfit after leaving Greenford.

THE SECOND PLAYER who transferred to Greenford this year is Gerald Arnold, a 220-pound junior from Midview High School. The big lineman is not new to Greenford since he spent his freshman year there before moving to Midview.

The other starting backfield man will be Kurt Gudat, a 160-pound senior halfback. Gudat and Laskey give the Bobcats a pair of halfbacks who are 10-second men in the 100-yard dash.

Auburn, LSU Could Repeat

Cannon to Lead Bayou Bengals

ATLANTA (AP) — The Southeastern Conference produced the No. 1 college football team in the nation the past two years and there are at least three good reasons to believe the Dixie Dozen may make it three in a row. One reason is Louisiana State, the defending national champion. Another is Auburn, the 1957 top dog.

A third is Mississippi, a perennial power.

If all three of those solid contenders should falter, then the SEC championship battle will turn into a dog-eat-dog affair with almost every team in the running.

Florida, Georgia Tech and Tennessee should be first rate challengers if some of their newcomers produce. Kentucky and Georgia look rugged on the ground and in the air. Alabama is rebuilding swiftly but probably is a year away. Vanderbilt, Mississippi State and Tulane generally are assigned to the rear ranks because of either too tough a schedule or too little material.

Among the big three, LSU gets top pre-season billing. And not simply because the Sugar Bowl champs were unbeaten and untied and No. 1 in the final Associated Press poll last season.

Of the 35 lads who lettered under Coach Paul Dietzel's three-team system, 31 are rarin' to go again. They include All-America halfback Billy Cannon.

In addition to being a tremendous runner, Cannon is a talented passer, pass receiver, punter, blocker and defender. His backfield buddies include quarterback Warren Rabb and halfback Johnny Robinson, both members of the all-SEC team last season. Dietzel again will use his famed three-unit system: A starting team of two-way players, a team of offensive specialists and the Chinese bandits, 11 youngsters dedicated to the fine art of defense.

Auburn for the past two years has been the No. 1 defensive team in the nation and owns the longest unbeaten string in college football—24 games marred only by a tie with Georgia Tech.

Two of the key cogs in Auburn's defensive machine for two years are back-Zeke Smith, an All-American guard, Jackie Burkett, a second team All-A center. Coach Ralph Jordan lost some good men but says he expects Auburn to be on a par with his squads of the past two years—a very pretty par.

Mississippi has a few soft spots that newcomers must fill. But Coach Johnny Vaughn figures to field another sleek, swift, hard-hitting outfit. The Rebels boast a terrific guard in Marvin Terrell and such outstanding backs as quarterback Bobby Franklin and fullback Charley Flowers.

Inter-County League Preview Set Saturday

All 10 members of the Inter-County League will take part in the loop's seventh annual football preview Saturday at McDonald Stadium.

The exhibitions will consist of two eight-minute periods. The five game schedule is as follows: 7, Canfield vs Greenford; 7:30, Jackson-Milton vs Fairfield-Waterford; 8:10, McDonald vs Springfield Local; 8:40, North Lima vs Lowellville; 9:10, Goshen Union vs Western Reserve.

Hot Stove Managers Will Meet Saturday

Managers of all Salem Hot Stove League teams are requested by League President John Herman Jr. to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. Saturday at the American Legion Home to discuss rule changes for next year.

League officers will take proposed rule changes to Ravenna on Sunday when all chapters of the Ohio Hot Stove League are scheduled to meet to vote on the proposals.

Brother Battery Fails to Click

Redlegs Split With Cubs 10-4, 6-3

MILWAUKEE — The Cincinnati Reds have a chance to cause no end of consternation among the three top National League pennant contenders.

Starting here tonight, the Reds' next seven games will be against Milwaukee, San Francisco and Los Angeles, the three clubs battling for the pennant. A Redleg winning spurt against any or all could create utter confusion in the pennant race.

Fourth-place Pittsburgh, which Cincinnati hopes to catch, has three games at Los Angeles while the Reds are here but the Pirates will be engaged with second division competition the rest of the week.

Gain Now At Defensive End

Brown Experiments With His Punters

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bob Gain, shifted from tackle to end on the Cleveland Browns' defensive line, says he likes the outside position because "you can get me off of a rush on the passer from out there."

The hulking 256-pound lineman could cause passers plenty of worry crashing in on them.

"We're sure he has the body and enough speed to play end," Coach Paul Brown said and added:

"It's a question whether he can help us more at tackle."

Brown also has been experimenting with punters. Dick Deschaine, specialist obtained last year from the Green Bay Packers, handled that department for Cleveland during the 1958 season. He averaged 41.3 yards in 50 kicks to rank sixth among National Football League punters.

Jim Shofner, Lowe (Junior) Wren, Kenny Konz and Milt Plum all are accomplished punters. Brown wants to find out if any can punt well enough to handle the chore for the Browns.

Shofner kicked for Cleveland during the exhibition season last year, but had a couple of bad games and Brown got Deschaine from Green Bay.

During practice sessions this week, Deschaine consistently booted long, high punts. But Shofner and Wren were not far behind, with each occasionally booming a long one.

3 Softball Games Are Rained Out

The Old Timers benefit softball game and two Invitational tournament contests scheduled for Kelley Field Thursday night were rained out.

Tournament Director Dave Briskin reports that the Old Timers game will be rescheduled sometime next week. The other two washouts will be played tonight and Saturday.

At 6:30 tonight undefeated Niles Albirens Restaurant will meet Youngstown Army-Navy 343 in the only game scheduled, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Salem Herron Transfer will tangle with the Akron Esquires.

Second Service Bothers MacKay

Barry to Face Bartzen Today

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. (AP) — Towering Barry MacKay shook his head sadly today and complained:

"Boy, am I being bugged about that second service of mine."

Barry, a civilian less than a week after a stint in the Air Force, faces Bernard "Tut" Bartzen of Dallas in one of the four quarter-finals on the schedule in the national tennis championships.

In the others, Neale Fraser of Australia goes against Luis Ayala of Chile, Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn tackles Rod Laver of Australia and too-seeded Alex Olmedo of Los Angeles faces Roy Emerson of Australia.

"You know," said MacKay, who gained his bracket with a 6-4, 6-4, 9-7 triumph over Bob Mark of Australia Thursday, "everyone seems to be talking about my second service. Why don't I get it in, they ask me. Or, why don't I play it safe."

"But I really think I have it licked. I'm not double faulting as much as I used to (10 against Mark)."

Top-seeded Maria Bueno of Brazil, fourth-seeded Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., Louise Brough Clapp of Pasadena, Calif., and Karen Hantze of San Diego, Calif., all gained the quarter-finals in the women's division.

Miss Bueno and Mrs. Brasher clash in one quarter-final while Miss Hard meets Miss Hantze in another. In the others, Sandra Reynolds of South Africa, seeded No. 2, meets sixth-seeded Ann Haydon of England, and Christine Truman of England, No. 3, plays Dorothy Head Knode of Panama.

Bucs Come from Behind to Top Giants 5-3

Braves Defeat Cardinals 7-4

Los Angeles Tops Philadelphia 5-0

By The Associated Press
Things don't look good for San Francisco's Giants in that National League pennant race. Not with the Milwaukee Braves riding a five-game streak after two perk-up, come-from-behind victories and Los Angeles pitchers back in business.

The Braves and Dodgers, tied for second, trimmed San Francisco's lead to two games Thursday as the Giants and 19-game winner Johnny Antonelli blew a 3-1 lead and lost 5-3 to Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee moved in with a four-run seventh inning that beat St. Louis 7-4. And Los Angeles kept the pace with a 5-0 job on Philadelphia as Roger Craig gave the Dodger staff two consecutive three-hit shutouts and a string of 23 scoreless innings.

Cincinnati split a pair at Chicago, winning 10-4 before the Cubs took a 7-3 decision.

In the American League, Chicago's White Sox lost 8-2 at Washington but retained a 4½-game edge when Baltimore defeated second place Cleveland 6-1 on Hoyt Wilhelm's three-hitter. New York took third place, by a half-game over Detroit, with a 12-1 romp over the Kansas City A's, who now have lost 13 in a row. Boston beat the Tigers, 7-3.

Craig (8-3), a right-hander who hadn't put away a complete game against the Phillies in 10 tries since 1956, faced the minimum 18 men over the last six innings while matching Don Drysdale's three-hit job of Wednesday night.

The Dodgers beat Don Cardwell (9-8) with a pair of unearned runs in the first inning on an error, walk and Norm Larker's single. Their other three came in the fifth when Maury Wills, who had four of their seven hits, and Charley Neal each tripled.

Milwaukee built a 3-0 lead against Larry Jackson, who had shut out the Dodgers and Giants in his last two starts, but the Cards took a 4-3 lead with three runs in the seventh against Juan Pizarro and Bob Rush. Then the Braves bounced back for their four, scoring three on Hank Aaron's double after losing reliever Lindy McDaniel (14-12) had loaded the bases with three consecutive walks.

Don McMahon (5-2) won it with a one-hit two-inning mopup that officially eliminated the seventh place Cards from the race.

The Pirates, who had lost four in a row, caught the Giants with four runs in the seventh. An error by Danny O'Connell let in the tying run and Bob Clemente then put it away with a two-run single. Vern Law (1-9) went all the way for the victory.

4 Pros Play Just to Relax And Par Loses to 26 Birdies

SHAWNEE - on - DELAWARE, Pa. — Vacationing golfers aren't the only ones who return home talking about their golf scores.

This fall after the four top playing professionals from the Shawnee Country Club put up their sticks for the season they will still be rehearsing one of the greatest rounds ever played by one foursome.

Dick Farley, 29, of Alameda, Calif., shot a course record 63; head pro Harry Obitz of Red Cloud, Neb., scored a 65; John Chimienti, 21, of Harrisburg, Pa., scored a 58, and Ronnie (Dutch) Ward, 25, of Orwigsburg, Pa., turned in a 69 while playing a match immediately following the Festival of Golf at the 6,800-yard Shawnee course.

"I believe it to be the most unusual foursome ever played," says Obitz. "We didn't have one bogie in the entire match. Put four top touring pros together and somewhere along the line somebody would go one over par. This match was like waiting for a ho-hitter to end."

"The amazing part of Dick Farley's record 63 is the fact that he hit two traps. He was trapped on the seventh hole but wedged out four feet from the pin and sank his putt for a birdie four. On the 15th, he landed in a trap but wedged out 40 feet from the pin. He sank the long putt for his ninth birdie."

Obitz and Farley teamed together for a best ball of 60. The four-ball best ball score was a 57 — since these four are pros there was no handicap as in the common best-ball pro-amateurs.

"Funny thing," says Farley, "we were not out after any record even though five holes have been changed this year. What helped my game was the fact that everybody in the foursome played so well. And we only started out for a relaxing game of golf after having handled a four-day tournament."

After 13 holes, Farley was well relaxed. He was eight under par. The four golfers birdied all but three holes. Overall they accounted for 26 birdies.

Sophomore ends Paul Martin and Tom Perdue were the pass receivers on most of the day's completions.

Trainer Ernie Biggs listed 21 Buckeyes on the injured list but most of the hurts are superficial, he reported.

Fourth Annual Event Set Sunday

Preparations Being Completed For Hunting Club Field Day

Preparations are being completed for the Salem Hunting Club's fourth annual field day which will be held Sunday at the club grounds.

The activities will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 6 p.m. Admission and parking will be free. Special prizes will be awarded each hour during the event.

One of the highlights of the day will be James Ivan's shooting gallery which attracted a multitude of shooters last year. Prizes will be given to the best marksmen.

A shooting exhibition will be given by the Junior Rifle Team at 2 p.m.

A muzzle loader shooting exhibition is scheduled for 2:30, to be followed by a trap shoot, open to the public, at 3.

Mo-Skeet shooting galleries will be in operation all day.

A taxidermy exhibit of Ohio game and predatory animals will be on the grounds. Boat and hobby and craft displays also are scheduled.

Pony rides will be available for children.

Lunch and refreshments will be served.

The field day last year attracted hundreds of sportsmen and their families from this district and other areas.

Bears Seeking Fifth Victory

Halas' Crew' Giants Play Tonight

By The Associated Press
A team can get too good too soon in the National Football League. It happened to Cleveland more than once in recent years. The Browns ran out of drive and lost key late-season games.

But the 1959 Chicago Bears have no choice. If they are to be the best in the NFL, they can't get too good too soon. By mid-season George Halas' Chicago team will have met the world champion Baltimore Colts twice in Western Conference play and will have completed another pair with the Los Angeles Rams, who tied the Bears for second in the conference last season.

There is no time to waste for the Bears, and they seem to realize it. They've swept four exhibition games, totaling 106 points in the last two.

Tonight that powerful offense meets a stiff test in the point-stingy New York Giants, defending Eastern Conference champions. The Giants dropped their first two games but have squared their exhibition record at 2-2 by posting consecutive shutouts over Detroit and Green Bay.

The Giants-Bears exhibition is at Soldier Field, Chicago, and will be the first of three NFL pre-season games on television (CBS, 10:15 p.m., EST) this weekend.

Saturday night the Washington Redskins meet the Green Bay Packers at Winston-Salem, N.C.

Bosox Turn Back Tigers 7-3

Senators Dump Chisox 8-2; Yankees Top Athletics 12-1

By The Associated Press
Early Wynn has a 19-9 record this season for the Chicago White Sox. Bud Daley is 15-12 for Kansas City. Hoyt Wilhelm is 14-1 for Baltimore. All three have winning records over Cleveland.

So what? So it's a bit ironic that the Indians, who once owned all three, now are so hard up for pitching while trying to stay alive in that American League pennant race that they're going to give infielder Granny Hamner another crack at it.

Hamner tried once before. One of the Whiz Kids who brought the National League pennant to Philadelphia in 1950, he took a shot at pitching with the Phils in 1956 because of an ailing shoulder that gave him trouble when he batted.

The experiment didn't work. He pitched just nine innings in four games over two seasons for an 0-1 record.

Wilhelm, the knuckleballing right-hander Cleveland didn't want, hung the Injuns up to dry again Thursday night, clipping their winning streak at six with a three-hitter as Baltimore beat the second place Tribe 6-1. That left Cleveland 41 games behind the White Sox, who were belted 8-2 by Washington but reduced their magic number to 11.

New York regained third place with a 12-1 romp over Kansas City, the A's 13th straight loss, while Detroit dropped to fourth with a 7-3 defeat at Boston.

The White Sox were knocked over by three Washington home runs that backed a four-hitter by Camilo Pascual (15-10). Harmon Killebrew, tying Cleveland's Rocky Colavito for the AL lead with his 40th, Jim Lemon and Lennie Green tagged the homers, all two-run shots.

Dick Donovan (9-8) was the loser.

Wilhelm missed a shutout over the Indians in the eighth inning on a walk, two passed balls and an infield out. Russ Nixon singled for two of Cleveland's hits, Woody Held doubled for the other.

Brooks Robinson drove in four runs for the Birds, hammering a three-run homer in the eighth off reliever Herb Score. He doubled home their first run as they scored three in the fourth against loser Al McLish (17-8).

Locals Face Battle Tonight

Blue Devils to Field Fast, Heavy Team

In the football preview at East Liverpool tonight, Salem might well be up against a team as strong as any outfit they are scheduled to meet during the regular season.

The Lisbon backs will be faster and the line bigger than the team Salem will start tonight. Lisbon's line will average 188 pounds per man against Salem's 172 pounds.

In halfback Tom Brooks, the Blue Devils have a runner who no Salem back can catch if he gets by him. Bud Bucher calls Brooks the fastest man he has coached in 14 years at Lisbon.

Despite the natural rivalry between the two clubs, neither Bucher nor Salem's Earle Bruce seems much concerned about the outcome of their meeting tonight. Their chief worry is that some player might come up with an injury that will keep him out of the season's opener next week.

Fans who see the two clubs in action tonight will get a look at the players who will open next week, but that's about all they'll see. The Quakers used two plays in losing to Lisbon last year in the preview. They'll probably "open up" tonight and use four. It's usually the same story on defense — show it in the preview and forget it.

Lisbon will do the same thing. Salem's starting backfield tonight will have Vince Horning, 160 pounds, at quarterback; Pete Schmauch, 188, at fullback; Co-captain Fred Phillips, 172, at right half; and Frank Copacic, 150, or onnie Janovec, 188, at left half.

On the line will be Chuck Horn, 167, or Don Davidson, 173, at left end; Co-captain Ned Chappell, 190, left tackle; Fred Harshman, 151, left guard; Tom Dahms, 164, center; Charles Metcalf, 175, right guard; Joe Julian, 194, right tackle; and Tony Petrucci, 165, right end.

Both Salem and Lisbon are similar in that they both have outstanding first teams but have been experiencing some difficulty in developing strong alternate units. Both teams will be fielding an almost all-senior starting lineup.

Salem should be better off in the depth department since they have 70 men out for the team from three classes while Lisbon has 45 players, including freshmen.

The Salem-Lisbon game tonight is scheduled to get underway at 8:40. Other games in the preview will pit Columbiana against Wells-ville at 7:50 and East Liverpool against Leetonia at 9:30.

Manager Frank Skaff of Durham in the Carolina League signed his right fielder, Art Clesuras, off the University of Maryland campus last year while scouting for the Detroit Tigers.

Six Gamblers Face Sentences

Group Evaded Excise Taxes

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Six big-money gamblers convicted of evading $326,315 in excise taxes face prison sentences of five years and fines of $25,000 each.

They have 10 days in which to decide whether to go to prison or appeal their conviction.

Two others, shown leniency because of their age, will not go to prison but must pay $25,000 fines.

Judge Cale J. Holder sentenced and find the eight men in U. S. Dist. Court Thursday, suspending the five-year terms for Charles L. (Buck) Sumner, 71, and Joey Jacobs, 64, both of Indianapolis.

The judge gave the others until Sept. 21 to decide whether to appeal or to report for imprisonment. They are Leo (Bookie) Shaffer, 58, Chicago; Jules Horowitz, 54, Chicago; Philip (Flippy) Shure, 54, Minneapolis and Las Vegas; Irwin Gordon, 41, Las Vegas; James Tamer, 46, Detroit and Miami; and Eddie M. Wyatt, 60, Terre Haute.

Besides the fines, the eight must pay the costs of their six-week trial at Terre Haute, which may amount to $20,000. They also will face an undetermined civil liability that could run to a million dollars.

The eight gamblers were convicted July 30 of evading the 10 per cent excise tax on $3,263,150 worth of bets in 10 weeks of operation at Terre Haute in the fall of 1957. The government estimates that the syndicate handled 10 million dollars in bets during that period.

Federal Reserve Members Paying 4 Per Cent Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Member banks borrowing from eight branches of the Federal Reserve system today start paying 4 per cent interest, the highest rate in 29 years.

The expected 1/2 per cent increase in the discount rate was announced late Thursday for Reserve banks in New York, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas, San Francisco and Kansas City.

The system's other four banks are expected to start charging the increased rate before long.

Other short term interest charges have climbed sharply in the last month. The rate on three-month treasury bills, for example, has increased since early August from just over 3 per cent to nearly 4 per cent.

Today's discount rate increase is the fifth since the board adopted a policy of tightening credit after the 1958 recession. Rates went as low as 1 3/4 per cent during the recession.

Preacher Takes In Homeless Family

CARROLLTON, Ga. (AP) — A homeless young Pennsylvania mother will live with a preacher and his family until her husband serves a year in a work camp for stealing $4.60.

Mrs. Harry R. Thomas, 19, said Thursday night she had no one to go back to in Shippensburg, Pa., after Carrollton residents contributed $25 for a train ticket.

She spent Wednesday night with her husband, 23, in county jail after she told police she had no place to go with her infant son and wanted to be in jail with her husband.

Thomas pleaded guilty to stealing 60 cents in cash and $4 worth of gasoline and cigarettes from a store.

Mrs. Thomas will live at the home of Bob Turney, a barber and part time Baptist preacher.

Building Industry Eyes Mortgage Hike

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A building industry spokesman predicts the Federal Housing Administration will increase the mortgage rate from FHA-insured loans by one-half per cent, from 5 1/2 to 6 per cent.

Carl Mitnick of Merchantville, N. J., president of the National Home Builders Assn., told more than 400 builders here Thursday that he expects the increase to come within 30 days.

Five-Day Forecast

Temperatures will average 3 to 5 degrees below normal. Normal high 76 north to 80 south. Normal low 55-57. A little warmer Saturday, turning cooler Sunday or Sunday night, little temperature change Monday and Tuesday, warmer Wednesday. Precipitation will total 1 inch or less in possible showers about Wednesday.

CONFIRMATION SOUGHT

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday approved and sent to the Senate for confirmation the nomination of Girard Kahlfleisch for federal district judge for the Northern District of Ohio.

Columbiana's School Enrollment Gains 108

COLUMBIANA —With a total of 161 boys in the upper four grades — automatically placing the school in the Ohio Class AA high schools counted a total attendance of 1,350 during the first days of the 1959-60 term. The total is 108 more than registered on the first day of school last year.

Over-all, boys outnumber girls by 709 to 628. The senior class has a total of 71 students. Other class enrollments include: 11th grade 79; 10th grade 89; ninth grade 77; eighth grade 107; seventh grade 119; sixth grade 114; fifth grade 119; fourth grade 113; second grade 133; first grade 135 and kindergarten 123.

STARTING LINEUP for tonight's game with Wellsville in the eight-team preview at East Liverpool has been announced by Clipper Coach George Fisher. His team will average only 156 pounds, but will include eight lettermen in the offensive — defensive combination which includes six seniors, six juniors, a sophomore and a freshman.

The offensive lineup will include Bob Bender, senior, and Rich Harold, junior, at ends; Tom Logan, captain, senior, and three-year letterman and Don Williams, junior at tackles; Alan Douglas, and Ray Detwiler, both senior lettermen, at guards; Don Culp, junior letterman, center; Bill Stratton, senior transfer from Cleveland West Tech, fullback, 163 pounds; Gary Perkins, junior letterman, left half, 172 pounds; Larry Barnhouse, junior letterman, right half, 131 pounds; and Dave Bailey, sophomore, quarterback, 140 pounds.

On defense, Roger Fritch, senior letterman; Gary Spratt, junior letterman, and Dale Murphy, freshman, will go in for Stratton, Williamson and Bailey.

AMERICAN LEGION Post 290's rain-sprinkled midway opened yesterday for the 73rd edition of the Columbiana Street Fair.

Crowded with more attractions than ever, and with an exhibit tent bulging with displays, the fair had only the weather to combat, in sponsors' estimation, in establishing a record year. The festival continues tonight and Saturday, closing at midnight the final day. The Boosters Club will clean the street.

MRS. WILLIAM JONES was hostess for the first fall meeting of the Village Garden Club, held last Tuesday. Mrs. Harry Dean was co-hostess. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. John Fitzpatrick, president.

Mrs. Merle Yoder of the Springfield Rd. will entertain members of the Priscilla Circle of the Christian Church on Tuesday. She will be assisted by Mrs. Dwaine Allison. Devotions will be conducted by Mrs. Richard Sponseller.

THE FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP Friendly Neighbors group will meet on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Don Fitzsimmons on the Middletown Road.

Mrs. Jane Jolly, head of the Columbiana County Cancer Society will speak at 10:30 a.m. and show films. This is an all day meeting with a coverdinner at noon. Anyone interested in attending is urged to be present, bringing table service and a coverdinner.

THE REGULAR HOURS of the Columbiana Methodist Church services and Sunday School will resume Sunday, 9:45 and 10:45.

The Sub - District, Columbiana County Senior High MYF rally will be held Sept. 13 at 2 p.m. in the local Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gleckler and Mrs. Paul Gleckler visited on Wednesday evening in the Cora Henry home. Mrs. Paul Gleckler remained for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fisher visited relatives in Boardman.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Leonard and daughters have moved to their newly constructed home at 154 Stanton Ave.

A daughter was born Tuesday at Salem City Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Logan.

Meeting On Negley Drainage Postponed

LISBON — A scheduled meeting of State Highway Department representatives, county commissioners and Middletown Township trustees called for Thursday at 11 a.m., was postponed when officials from the highway department failed to appear.

The meeting had been called to solve the problem of water running into cellars of the Methodist Church, Masonic Temple and a number of homes along Rt. 154 in Negley.

The three township trustees, Stewart Dyke, Norman Wright and Dalton Pike requested the meeting. They said the township couldn't solve the problem because of the lack of funds and sought aid from the county and the state.

Another meeting is expected to be set up when the state can have a representative present, the commissioners said.

E. Liverpool Couple Held for Contributing

LISBON — An East Liverpool man and woman are being held in county jail in lieu of $1,000 bond on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of the woman's five minor children.

Raymond P. Waite, 33, and Mrs. Violet Boswell, 42, will have a hearing Thursday, Sept. 24. They pleaded not guilty at a preliminary hearing Thursday before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin.

Charges were filed by juvenile authorities. The children were turned over to the Welfare Department until the case is heard.

Ex-Convict Is Killed In Wild Battle

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP) — An ex-convict was shot to death Thursday night after wounding three persons in a wild battle during an attempt to hold up a market.

One of the victims is a housewife, eight months pregnant. She was shot in the abdomen.

An assistant market manager, Kenneth Benson, 26, stabbed in the stomach, seized the holdupman's gun and killed him with shots in the heart and groin.

Police identified the robber as William Coleroff, 46, an ex-convict from Philadelphia. They said they found among his papers the address, 2551 N. 33rd St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Benson, his pregnant wife, Sally, 20, and Richard E. Lifsey, 17, were working in the market when the robber entered. Police said the gunman started shooting after Lifsey hit him with a bag of quarters wounding Mrs. Benson and the youth, before Benson seized the gun.

Californian Joins Group He Founded

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dean David Snodgrass today joined the exclusive club he founded after World War II at Hastings Law School. This is his 65th birthday.

After the war, he started hiring retired law deans and professors for Hastings, a fast growing branch of the University of California. Now he hasn't a man on his 14-man staff who can't qualify for social security.

The oldest is Merton L. Ferson, 83, for 20 years dean of the University of Cincinnati Law School. He teaches contracts and agencies.
